DOCTORS 'EVALUATE' IKE'S CHILLS

Dent, Parente Choices Of County Democrats to Run for Kelley's Seat

Bigwigs of the Westmoreland County Democratic organization were undecided today whether State Sen. John R. Dent, Jeannette, or Mayor Hugo J. Parente, Monessen, will be its choice as the possible successor to Congressman Augustine B. Kelley, Greensburg, who died last Wednesday.

This was learned after party leaders met yesterday at the Penn Albert Hotel in Greensburg, a few hours after Kelley's body was interred in Arlington Cemetery, Washington, D. C.

The primary purpose of yesterday's meeting was to recommend to Gov. George Leader that Jan. 21 be the date for a special election to fill the vacant seat.

It was learned reliably that the meeting also included a lengthy discussion as to Kelley's successor which boiled down to Dent or Parente.

'Still in Running'

Despite persistant rumors, Parente, a former field secretary for Kelley, has "not removed himself from the picture," a top party leader told The Daily Independent this morning.

"Parente still is in the running. It is up to him to decide what he wants to do," the informant said. "He definitely remains a possibility."

The source would not say which of the two has the inside track, but it was believed that Dent, at present, is the front runner.

Dent and Parente were out of the county today and could not be reached for comment.

The reliable source said that Atty. Joseph M. Loughran, Greensburg, "definitely is out of the picture and, in fact, wasn't given serious consideration."

Loughran, who bolted from the regular organization last December and ran as an unsuccessful independent judge candidate in the primary and then kissed and made up during the general election, said he would take the job if asked.

Others Mentioned

As late as this morning, James E. Lovett, state assemblyman from Trafford, was seeking support. He isn't expected to be a serious contender against Dent or Parente.

It was also learned that Atty. Paul Mahady, Latrobe, has removed himself from consideration.

Meanwhile, indications of Republican plans are lacking. However, it is believed that Herbert O. Morrison, Scottdale, twice unsuccessful against Kelley, is the strongest GOP possibility.

The two parties will choose their candidates in accordance with their own rules. The Democratic candidate will be nominated by the state committee, which usually accepts a recommendation from the county involved.

The GOP candidate will be selected by the Republican county committee.

Carroll Twp. To Enforce All Traffic Rules

Carroll Twp. Police Chief G. S. Garcia said today he has ordered an all-out campaign to enforce traffic regulations.

Garcia said the police effort is designed to curb speeding, to enforce observance of stop signs and to protect pedestrians and school children.

A second officer, Robert Sevich, has been added to the Carroll force to assist in the campaign.

Officers began active patrols last week at the Sampson School short-cut road to Donora (where it enters Route 837) near the Eldora church.

"We have been checking this danger point for many weeks. Now with adequate help, we can launch a full campaign," said Garcia.

"We are spending three or four days weekly on Rt. 88 where children must walk to school at Fisher Heights.

"The other time we will check on the Stop sign observance at Eldora cutoff road. It is our intention also to have daily patrols, insofar as possible, near the Wickerham Crossroads where children must walk along the highway."

The Carroll Twp. Road Supervisors recently designated Officer Sevich for service with Garcia. The officers are uniformed.

Hilltop Bus Line Asks for Fare Increase

The Monessen Hilltop Bus Line has asked the Public Utility Commission for permission to increase fares on Dec. 22.

The transit firm's new fare schedule calls for the elimination of the present two tokens for 25 cents and asks for a straight 15-cent fare for rides in Monessen.

The firm is also seeking to raise all fares a dime on its Irvin Works route and five cents on several runs in the Smithton route. The proposed fare increases are for single rides only and will not effect the price of the two-week trip-ticket policy now being used by Irvin workers.

The company estimated the fare boosts would return an estimated $4,830 additional revenue annually, needed to meet higher operating costs.

Sculco, Monessen Group File Expenses

GREENSBURG, Pa. (UP) — Westmoreland County District Attorney L. Alexander Sculco, New Kensington, today reported expenditures of $5,737.15 in his successful campaign for Common Pleas Court in the Nov. 5 election and receipts totaled $4,632.10.

In another expense account report, the Monessen City Democratic Committee said its expenditures totaled $5,006.80 and receipts $5,010.

Both reports showed no outstanding bills.

Bloom Charges Swaney Part of 'Stop Furman'

Republican State Chairman George I. Bloom charged yesterday that the recent appointment of Daniel B. Swaney, Uniontown, to the state Liquor Control Board, was part of Gov. George M. Leader's "stop Furman drive."

"It is common knowledge that Swaney is Democratic boss of Fayette County and that when the governor gave him a place on the board he was trying to keep Furman from capturing Fayette County in the coming fight for the Democratic nomination for governor," Bloom said.

Lt Gov. Roy E. Furman is expected to announce his candidacy for governor in the face of reports that Leader favors Mayor Richardson Dilworth of Philadelphia to succeed him.

Swaney, treasurer of the Democratic Central Committee of Fayette County, for 15 years, will take over the $14,000 board post Dec. 2. He succeeds Donald A. Behney, Lebanon Republican, whose term will expire.

"This brazen use of politics to fill such an important place as a member of the Liquor Control Board is too high a price for the people of Pennsylvania to pay to advance the governor's personal political ambitions," Bloom said.

Truck Driver Is Hurt in Accident

George Spickel, 20, R. D. 1, West Newton, a milk truck driver, suffered a compound fracture of the left leg and bruises and cuts in one-vehicle accident on Smithton Road yesterday.

Reports said the rig's brakes failed, resulting in the truck overturning and pinning Spickel underneath.

He was listed in fair condition in Mt. Pleasant Hospital today.

TURNCOAT TURNED LOOSE — Former Corp. Edward S. Dickenson leaves prison at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., a free man after serving a sentence for collaborating with the enemy and informing on fellow Americans who planned escape in Korea. Dickenson got a 10-year term in 1954. It was reduced to five years, then reduced further for good behavior. Dickenson was the first American turncoat to quit Red China.

Doolittle Claims It's Time to Go 'All Out'

WASHINGTON (UP) — Lt. Gen. James H. Doolittle said today the Russians are "certainly ahead" of the United States in missiles and "it is time to go all out" to find a defense against continent-spanning rocket weapons.

Doolittle, a scientist, businessman and World War II flying hero, appeared before the Senate Preparedness subcommittee, which is investigating the U.S. missile and satellite programs.

He threw at the committee a series of recommendations, including a call for improved missile development by this country, and warned:

"All this adds up to an immediate, substantial increase in our military budget."

Doolittle told the senators that the Soviet Union leads the United States in development of both intermediate and intercontinental range ballistic missiles.

SAC Needs Planes

He said the Strategic Air Force needed more planes, missiles as soon as they are available, adequate crews and airfields, more flying time to operate on a "maximum alert."

For air defense, he said, there was a need for improved radar, planes and missiles and more rapid development of the sage communication system. He said the Army and Navy also should

Spanish Troops Battle Moroccans; Many Are Dead

MADRID (UP)—Spanish troops and Moroccan irregulars battled in the Spanish possession of Sidi Ifni today in the bitterest clashes between the two forces since the Riff wars of the 1920's.

Reports reaching Madrid said Spanish troops with heavy air support from their Canary Island base repulsed an attack by 1,200 Moroccans.

Spanish losses were given as four dead and 19 wounded. The reports said 80 Moroccans were killed or wounded.

The battle was reported to have started last Saturday. Spanish sources here said the irregulars had no backing from the Moroccan government at Rabat.

Sidi Ifni is a barren 1,000 square mile area with a population of 35,000 on the Moroccan Coast. Spain has held it since 1860 but dissident Moroccans have demanded control of it ever since Spain granted independence to Morocco 19 months ago.

The attackers were reported to be "liberation army" troops headed by Ben Hammun with secret backing from some influential elements in Rabat and foreign agitators.

Crown Prince Moulay Hassan of Morocco met with the cabinet in Rabat twice Monday in the absence of his father, King Mohammed V, who is in Washington.

Minor Damage in Local Accident

A minor motor accident involved two cars at the intersection of First St. and Schoonmaker Ave., Monessen, last night about 9 o'clock, police reported.

Drivers involved were Theodore Kalenic, Donora, and Andrew Vargo, Fayette City. Both were traveling in the same direction on Schoonmaker when the Vargo vehicle struck the other car.

Vargo, police said, will pay for Kalenic's damages.

President Put to Bed; Appointments Canceled; 'Resting Comfortably'

WASHINGTON (UP) — The White House said today that President Eisenhower "is progressing satisfactorily" after Monday's chill but that "his doctors are making a further evaluation.".

The statement, issued at 10:23 a. m. e.s.t., promised that "a report on this evaluation will be made as soon as possible."

But assistant press secretary Anne Wheaton told reporters she was unable to say when this would be—whether before noon or after.

Reporters told Mrs. Wheaton the brief and inconclusive statement might contribute to alarm over the President's condition. But she refused for the time being to amplify it.

In an earlier statement issued at 8:55 a.m. e.s.t. the White House had said the President "is resting comfortably, had a good breakfast, and is progressing very well."

Mrs. Wheaton said the President did not plan to keep any appointments today. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles filled in for him at a scheduled 9 a. m. conference with the visiting king of Morocco.

Dulles came to the White House to take care of the President's engagement with the king of Morocco. The meeting was held in the cabinet room of the White House.

Given Sedation

The President developed the chill and was ordered to bed by his doctors after going to the Washington airport in chilly weather Monday to welcome the Moroccan king.

He was given mild sedation and slept comfortably through the night. The White House said Monday night he had no fever and that his pulse and respiration were normal.

It gave no specific word on what had caused the chill.

Mrs. Eisenhower and most of the White House staff did not appear to be alarmed, despite some White House speculation that the President may have come down with Asian flu. He received an Asian flu shot in August.

The chill caused the President to stay away from a White House dinner Monday night for the Moroccan king and to cancel a speech he was to have made in Cleveland, Ohio, tonight.

Mrs. Wheaton early this morning declined to speculate on whether the President has Asian flu. She also would not hazard a guess as to when Eisenhower would be able to get out of bed.

The Chief Executive, who has suffered a heart attack and a serious intestinal operation in the past two years, was given a complete medical examination earlier this month and pronounced in excellent condition.

The first lady seemed unworried during the dinner during which her escort, Vice President Richard M. Nixon, substituted for Eisenhower as host and the Moroccan king toasted the absent President's health in orange juice. Moslems don't drink liquor.

Tax Increase Expected for City in 1958

The proposed 1958 budget for the City of Monessen is expected to call for a one-mill tax increase when it is introduced at a special meeting of City Council Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, it was learned unofficially today. The present rate is 9.5 mills.

Council already has held several informal meetings to prepare the budget for Saturday's introduction. More meetings are scheduled for this week. Last night Council worked on the matter for nearly four hours.

Members today said they prefer not to discuss the budget "until we iron out everything by Friday night or Saturday morning."

A regular meeting of Council is scheduled for tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock in the City Building.

Two Held Here For Wild and Wooly Episode

Two out-of-town men played the principal roles in a wild and wooly episode in the 11th St. section of Monessen this morning about 2 o'clock.

The two men who created the havoc, Robert Biles, 25, Clairton, and Kenneth Burkett, 18, Elrama, are lodged in Monessen jail today charged with malicious mischief and disorderly conduct. Biles is also charged with drunkenness.

The two reportedly tossed lighted kerosene lanterns through windows at the Sheetz Hotel, 1131 Schoonmaker Ave., and John's Pool Room, 1117 Schoonmaker Ave.; broke a window at Union Cleaning, 11th St. and Donner Ave., and kicked pursurer, Andrew Komlos, 1152 Schoonmaker Ave., in the stomach.

According to police reports, the men took warning lanterns being used on the Schoonmaker Ave. improvement program. Biles, it was said, threw his through the hotel window while Burkett selected the pool room window.

Komlos told police he saw the men and gave chase. When he got near enough one kicked him in the stomach.

Meanwhile, customers at the hotel bar joined in the chase and caught the two at the cleaning plant, but not before one of them placed his fist through a 12 by 18 foot glass window. Police hauled the two to jail. Monessen firemen were called by passersby when they saw the lanterns being tossed through the windows. Fire damage was negligible, it was said.

Kittle Given Maximum Term; 10-20 Years

Orville Kittle, convicted of second degree murder last week by a Washington County jury, was sentenced yesterday by Judge J. Ingram Hook to from 10 to 20 years in prison. It was the maximum sentence permitted under the law.

The 35-year-old defendant was found guilty of slaying his nephew George Wayne Lasko, 26, last Aug. 10, in California, Pa.

Judge Hook delayed sentencing last week in order to give Kittle's attorneys an opportunity to file for a new trial. Yesterday Kittle said he had nothing to say before the sentence was passed.

The defendant, who once served eight years in West Virginia State Penitentiary, will also have to face a parole violation when he completes his present sentence. Thus his prospects for freedom in the next two decades are slim.

Lasko was killed by a single shot from a .38 caliber police revolver held by Kittle as the latter was attempting to leave the vicinity of his sister's home along Route 88. Kittle was being investigated by Speers Borough Chief of Police Charles A. Hazlett about the burglary, earlier that Saturday, of the Hollow Inn in Speers.

Kittle grabbed Hazlett's gun from its holster and was attempting to leave in Hazlett's car when Lasko interfered and was shot. Kittle then left in the California Borough Police car which arrived just after the shooting. He was captured by State Police in Greene County the same night.

Catholic Youth Wants Stricter Divorce Laws

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — The National Conference of Catholic Youth plans to petition legislatures of every state in the nation for more stringent divorce laws.

The Right Rev. Msgr. Joseph Schiender, director of the Youth Department, National Catholic Welfare Conference, said Monday night that delegates to the five-day convention sharply criticized divorce as a cause of an unstable family unit and an unstable society.

A resolution was adopted calling for letters to be sent to the state legislatures stating the delegates' position regarding divorces.

The delegates passed another resolution condemning the transaction of unnecessary business on Sunday and setting the last Sunday in December aside as a day of prayer for persecuted persons behind the Iron Curtain.

James H. Crowley, chairman of the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission, was the principal speaker Monday night at the closing session of the group's Camping Association.

Donora Man Files Suit for Damages

Gordon H. Colley, Donora, has filed a suit in Westmoreland County Court to collect damages in the amount of $415.16 from Flora J. Ditchfield, Shamokin, as a result of a traffic accident last July 13.

The suit charges Colley's station wagon was struck and damaged by the Ditchfield auto near an intersection of two streets in West Newton.

Bentleyville Man Pleads Innocent

Albert Pauline, 46, Bentleyville, pleaded innocent yesterday when arraigned in U. S. District Court, Pittsburgh, on a charge of failure to pay the 10 per cent excise tax on gambling.

The case was set tentatively for trial in January.

Zero Hour Next Week In Satellite Launching

WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States drove today toward a zero-hour—possibly next week—for launching its first tiny earth satellite.

Sources close to the Navy Vanguard project reported all in readiness at the Cape Canaveral, Fla. missile range for the space shot with a six-inch test "moon." But they said variable factors, such as weather, made the setting of an exact date impossible. The firing is scheduled for next month.

The disclosure came after a "chill" forced President Eisenhower to cancel tonight's third "chins up" speech on national security. The President also was to have been shown "some very significant" rocket-missile research results after the speech at Cleveland.

The display, prepared by the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, included examples of rocket propulsion, new types of engines and high energy fuels to throw new emphasis on America's effort to catch up with the Soviets.

Meantime today the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee planned in its far-reaching investigation to get more information on the U.S satellite program from Vanguard director Dr. John P. Hagan.

The President, who was scheduled to attend a North Atlantic Treaty Organization "summit" meeting in Paris next month, urged a group of NATO scientists Monday in a message to serve as a model for "practical and productive cooperation."

Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, told the same group Russia is "steadily" closing the gap with the military superiority held by the free world.

"If war is thrust upon us," he said, "we will have to win it with the weapons in hand. Time will no longer be available to marshal our resources."

Pallone In Verbal Slugfest

Dr. Joseph Pallone, superintendent of Monessen public schools, is a busy man these days, but he still finds time to take part in hometown affairs.

Dr. Pallone and his family continue to make their residence in Arnold. He was the high school principal there before succeeding Dr. Michael Duda as superintendent of Monessen schools last year.

This past Saturday, Dr. Pallone was one of the principal figures in a heated verbal slugfest at a two-hour Council meeting. He attended as a member of the Arnold Sewage Authority.

The Authority and Council have been at odds over the construction of a sewage disposal plant. The Authority wants to cooperate with New Kensington and other nearby districts, while Council wants to build an independent plant.

Recently there have been reports that Council planned to dissolve the Authority in order to have its way.

Strong Comments

Dr. Pallone had some strong comments to offer during the noisy meeting.

"The move for an independent plant was politically inspired," he said. Dr. Pallone then recalled it was the Authority which first suggested an independent plant in 1950, but he added:

"I'm sorry we kicked them (New Kensington) out in view of the politically opportune methods of council to sell this independent plant to the citizens of Arnold." Dr. Michael Duda as superintendent few more by remaining members of the Authority, Council moved to dissolve the Authority. However tempers finally cooled and no action was taken even though Dr. Pallone said he had his letter of resignation ready anytime council wanted it.

As matters turned out, Council agreed to invite the Authority to a joint meeting with New Kensington officials to discuss the matter further.

Today Dr. Pallone was not available for further comment. The busy educator was in New York City for a school conference.

'Pike Scandal Appeals Made

HARRISBURG (UP)—Five top figures convicted in the Pennsylvania Turnpike conspiracy scandal today sought a new trial in Dauphin County Court on the grounds that trial Judge Homer L. Kreider was "biased and prejudicial" to the defendants.

Seeking a new trial or a reversal of the guilty verdicts were former Commission Chairman Thomas J. Evans, 73, Coaldale; former Commissioner James F. Torrance, 69, Export; Paul J. McNeill, 45, West Reading, former turnpike finance director; Charles W. Stickler, Jr., 42, president of the Manu-Mine Research and Development Co., Reading; and Clayton A. Air Force Secretary James H. Douglas declared this country has no evidence Russia could "attack in the near future with intercontinental ballistic missiles."

Navy Vanguard scientists plan to shoot a fully instrumented satellite into orbit in March. But the Army, which was ordered to back up the project, may attempt to launch one in January with a Jupiter-C rocket.

For the baby moon firing which may be made next week, the Vanguard project has already successfully tested all three stages of its rocket. If it goes into orbit, the launching of other test globes will be abandoned and attempt will be made in January to put up the 20-inch instrumented satellite.

Last of Troops Will Leave Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UP)—Giant C-130 Troop Carriers will take out of Arkansas Wednesday the last 225 troops of the 101st Airborne Division who made it possible, with bare and ready bayonets, for nine Negroes to attend Central High School.

The job of protecting the Negroes will be turned over to 900 National Guardsmen, federalized by President Eisenhower when he ordered in the paratroopers, but still residents of Arkansas.

Because of the Thanksgiving holidays, which begin Wednesday, the first possible test of the quality of protection of the National Guardsmen will come next Monday.

In command of the National Guardsmen is Maj. Gen. Edwin Walker, a regular Army officer and commander of the Arkansas military district.

Sees Violence

Gov. Orval Faubus does not think all the troops could leave now without violence.

"If I had to hazard a speculation, it would be that some federal force will have to remain at the school until the end of the term if the Negroes are still enrolled," Faubus said.

His phrase, "if the Negroes are still enrolled," may spring from reports that the NAACP at midterm will give the Negro children a choice of dropping out and attending a segregated school, or remaining.

This Mrs. L. C. Bates, president of the Arkansas Chapter of the NAACP, bitterly denies.

Tension Still Present

Under the surface, there is still plenty of tension in Little Rock. There are scattered reports of incidents between white students and the Negroes. School officials deny some and confirm others.

Principal J. W. Matthews appears annoyed because he figures the Army is "leaking" information about conditions in the school.

"It will be different when the Army leaves," he said.

"Conditions have gradually improved until there is a satisfactory program going on," school superintendent Virgil Blossom said. "That is the only thing I am interested in," he said.

Most white students pay little attention to the Negroes.

One white boy said he feels that a majority of the white students has adopted the same attitude as he: "Get an education and get out."

Macmillan, Gaillard Fail to Heal Wide Rift

PARIS (UP) British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and Premier Felix Gaillard failed to heal the Anglo-French rift in eight hours of talks that ended shortly after midnight. The stalemate threatened Gaillard's political future.

The two premiers met again today with Gaillard battling against time. He hoped to win some promise of British support before the National Assembly tore into his Algerian Home Rule Bill later in the day.

The rift in the grand alliance developed when the United States and Britain flew token arms shipments to Tunisia over French protests. They hoped to head off Russian arms to Tunisia. France feared the allied arms would reach the Algerian rebels.

Youths Rioted

The anti-British feeling exploded into demonstrations against Macmillan on his arrival Monday. Police swinging clubs broke up a demonstration by 2,000 rioting youths near the British and American embassies. Six persons were hurt and 200 arrested.

Tension in connection with the Algerian rebellion flared into violence in Paris again Monday night and four persons were killed and eight wounded in three separate gun battles. The fighting was between rival Algerian nationalists.

The Paris incidents coincided with new precautions in Algeria itself against a threatened flareup of anti-French activities. French authorities said a series of bomb attacks against civilians hinted at a new terrorist campaign to coincide with United Nations debate on Algeria shortly.

Talks Delayed

Macmillan and Gaillard began their talks soon after the British leader arrived from London, two hours late because of bad weather.

A spokesman said after the session broke up shortly after midnight there had been no agreement, especially on the problems of North Africa and arms deliveries to Tunisia.

In addition to their failure to reach agreement on Tunisia, informed sources said they could not reach agreement on other problems such as NATO, Algeria and the creation of a European Free Trade Zone which would weld West Europe into a single market.

be given the money to do their jobs.

"We should start at once," he said, "on an anti-ICBM (intercontinental ballistic missile) program . . it is time to go all out."

He said this anti-missile defense should include the means both to detect and to destroy enemy missiles.

Russia Started Sooner

Doolittle told Senate investigators that "the primary reason" for Russia's lead was that the Soviet started working sooner on missiles. He said they started pushing their development 11 years ago, compared to four years ago for the United States.

Doolittle also testified that the Russans have been working harder, "even in the schools," "sacrificing more," and "have a long-range, consistent plan" aimed at achieving world domination.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson told newsmen earlier today that the nation's only real security lies in building up "a highly trained corps of engineers and scientists capable of meeting any threat." The Texas Democrat is chairman of the subcommittee.

Missile Only Symbol

Johnson told newsmen that Monday's testimony by Dr. Edward Teller, "father" of the hydrogen bomb, and Dr. Vannevar Bush, long-time scientific consultant to the government, indicated "the ballistic missile, important though it may be, is only a symbol of an even graver situation."

Bush, Teller and Dr. John Chipman, another scientist witness, all urged greater efforts in basic research and science education as urgently needed to put the United States ahead of Russia in the race on development of missiles and other space weapons.

They made these other major points:

—Russia has or will have "in a short time" an intercontinental missile accurate enough to hit an American city.

—U.S. missile efforts have been hurt by "damaging . . . sometimes disgraceful" armed service rivalry.

A statement by Teller that Russia had dealt this country a scientific Pearl Harbor was challenged later by President Eisenhower's scientific manpower adviser, Dr. Howard L. Bevis.

Propaganda Defeat Only

He said "I don't think it is as bad as that. I think we suffered a propaganda defeat and . . . a serious one. . . ."

Bush said the Unification Act of 1947 should be overhauled to establish a central military war planning board apart from the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Johnson said "considerable thought" would be given to this proposal.

cided to request State Sen. Joseph Barr, state chairman, to recommend to Gov. Leader that Jan 21 be the date of the special election.

The request is expected to be approved even though a special election would cost the county an estimated $25,000. If the governor decides to have the special election in conjunction with the May primary, the county would be without representation in the House for several months after Congress convenes in January.

The successful candidate in the special election will serve until January, 1959.

Candidates for the regular two-year term beginning January, 1959, will be nominated at the party primaries next May. The general election, which would determine the county's representative, will be held the following November

Choirs Requested For Nativity Scene

Church choirs and other groups who intend to sing Christmas carols at the Nativity Scene in downtown Monessen this holiday season are asked to reserve a date by contacting the Chamber of Commerce office.

Rinard Woods, chairman of the Christmas promotion, said that choirs are requested to register in order to insure proper accommodations. He said dates are open from Dec. 11 through Dec. 22 at the Nativity Scene, which will be located on Fifth St., between Donner Ave. and Railroad Alley.

Indiantown Gap Is Final Hurdle in Big High-speed Highway

HARRISBURG (UP) — The sprawling 18,000 acre Indiantown Gap Military Reservation today loomed as the final hurdle in laying out the proposed Scranton-Harrisburg interstate highway.

Robert A. Farley, chief engineer for the state Highways Department, told a Republican legislative delegation from the anthracite region the remaining roadblock was where to place the high-speed facility in relation to the military training center.

"It is a matter of going through the Gap or finding a road location to skirt it on the north or south," Farley said. However, he indicated a northern route around the reservation would be "prohibitive" because of the high cost in constructing a road in the mountains.

State Adjutant General Anthony J. Biddle Jr. recently charged that a four-lane highway through the Gap would seriously hamper military training programs for the Pennsylvania National Guard and other units. Biddle, head of the state Military Affairs Department, said the reservation could "live" with a superhighway that skirted the Gap.

Highways Secretary Lewis M. Stevens has scheduled a meeting Dec. 3 with Biddle to work out an agreement on the route location. Stevens conceded Biddle's views would have "considerable impact" on department plans.

Another Route Proposed

The delegation met with Stevens Monday to suggest a highway route advanced by the Pottsville Republican newspaper which would carry the facility north of the Gap along an abandoned railroad bed and the cities of Frackville, Fremount, Oxford and Dauphin.

However, Farley said the department had considered that and eight other possible routes on the east side of the Susquehanna River before deciding on the Indiantown Gap area. He said all other possibilities were scrapped because they were too expensive.

Farley said the route of the road between Sclanton and Ashland was virtually set. He also said proposals that present Route 11 be used for the highway had been rejected.

"We do not expect to pickup Route 11 and store it," Farley said. "It will continue to serve a very useful purpose and we plan to repair it."

A group called the "Original Route 11 Association" has been advocating use of the old route on the west side of the Susquehanna River rather than the hard coal belt road planned by the department. Stevens indicated the issue was closed by disclosing that public hearings on the new highway would not receive testimony in support of Route 11 but rather on what economic effect the route will have on the area it passes.

The delegation included state Sen. Paul L. Wagner (R-Schuylkill), state Rep. Edward Dunn (R-Northumberland) and Reps. Wayne M. Breisch, George W. Hleffner, H. Franklin Kehler and William K. Knecht, all Schuylkill County Republicans.

Jordan Troops Are Alerted

By UNITED PRESS

Jordan's Ramallah Radio alerted Jordanian and Saudi Arabian troops today against "Zionist anger."

Armed Jordanian soldiers patrolled the streets of old Jerusalem throughout the night and this morning and the situation was reported quiet but tense.

There was no report on the activities of the Saudi Arabian troops who entered Jordan last year during Israel's invasion of the Sinai Peninsula.

The Ramallah broadcast confirmed the troops were still in Jordan.

High Israeli sources predicted the crisis between Israel and Jordan might worsen within the next few days and expressed hope a visit by U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold would ease the situation.

Boys' Fling Over

MEADVILLE, Pa. (UP)—Three 14-year-old boys were back in the custody of their families here today after a Vermont deer hunting trip which they financed through sale of a diamond ring and a set of golf clubs taken from their homes.

The new structure will be 50 feet wide by 61 feet deep with a 30-foot by 13-foot service core. The main entrance will be located on Broad Ave., Buchanan said. The building is to be situated on the corner lot which has a frontage of 120 feet on Broad Ave. and extends to a depth of 112 feet along Cherry Alley to Pearl Alley.

The lot to the side of the building is of sufficient size to provide for a future 56-foot addition which will more than double the size of the original structure.

When construction work has been completed, Buchanan said, installation of the most modern type of dial switching equipment will start in preparation for the conversion of Belle Vernon's telephones to dial operation.

Effective with the change to dial operation, the new central office name WAverly will be established. All present Belle Vernon telephone numbers will be changed to two-letter-five figure WAverly numbers similar to those now used in many central offices throughout the country.

To Give Instructions

The adoption of one of the Bell System's standard central office names is a necessary part of the nationwide numbering plan designed to provide for customer dialing of calls over greater and greater distances and eventually to all parts of the country.

At a later date, while installation of dial equipment in the new WAverly central office is in progress Belle Vernon telephones will be equipped for dial operation and complete instructions for making local and out-of-town calls will be published, the manager stated.

"At the present time, there are approximately 4,535 telephones served by the Belle Vernon central office," Buchanan said. "This compares with some 3,475 in 1950 and only 930 in 1940."

The office handles some 23,550 originating calls on the average business day, compared with 19,485 calls a day in 1950 and only 6,350 in 1940.

UN Chief to Visit Mideast

UNITED NATIONS (UP)—U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold will try to find some long range answers to war — causing problems on his trip to the Middle East, informed sources said today.

The sources said he would not limit his talks with Middle East leader to the immediate fireworks on Israel's borders with Jordan and Syria but would conduct a sweeping review of the whole Middle East situation.

A U. N. spokesman announced Monday Hammarskjold will leave Friday for Amman, Jordan. He will spend a week in the area and try to get to Israel, Lebanon,

National and District Look at Scientific Education

Area Schools Far Above Average for the Nation

(Editor's Note—Why did Russia beat the United States into outer space? One of the reasons, according to many educators, is the relatively poor science education offered American high school students. This is the first in a series of three articles dealing with this situation as it applies to the three district secondary schools.)

By ALLEN KLINE

Is the nation lagging behind in science education at the high school level?

Some American educators think so. And national statistics would seem to support their conclusion.

However a survey of district schools produces an altogether different picture. If anything, area schools are turning out more — and better informed — students in science and mathematics than ever before.

At Bellmar, for example, 65 per cent of the graduates take a year of algebra. No less than 50 per cent go into advanced algebra. And 45 per cent study plane geometry.

The statistics are about the same at Monessen and Rostraver.

These figures are far above the national average. According to one survey, only 12 per cent of American high school students are taught algebra and geometry.

The science picture is far better than the national level, too.

Take Advanced Chemistry

At Rostraver, 11 per cent of the senior class is taking an advanced chemistry course similar to one usually offered in college.

But the most dramatic evidence of solid scientific training involves an incident at Monessen High this past January.

According to Henry Furio, principal, a student "radiological" team actually alerted the Atomic Energy Commission to exceptional radioactivity in the area.

Two senior boys discovered a radio-active fall-out while studying nuclear energy factors with geiger counters borrowed from the University of Pittsburgh. Their discovery was confirmed by Second Army and Civil Defense officials and identified as fall-out from a nuclear detonation over Sibera.

The jet air streams passing 40,000 feet over the earth had apparently carried fall-out particles over this area.

"This is one instance where our students actually provided the Atomic Energy Commission with significant data," Furio stated. "We were asked not to mention the discovery at the time, indicating its further value."

None of the three district schools tabulates the number of graduates who go into scientific field. However all three report that at least one out of every four students will go on to college work.

Mathematics 'Solid'

Principals at Monessen, Rostraver and Bellmar all described their mathematics departments as "solid." One of the three principals admitted a "possible weak spot in physics," but that was the only hint of teaching inferiority.

It was also pointed out that advanced mathematics, as well as courses in chemistry and physics, are difficult. Consequently only the most able students are permitted to take them.

"When a student passes our chemistry course, we know he's learned something," said Clifford Naylor, Rostraver principal.

At Bellmar, principal Raymond Barker pointed out that the science and mathematics faculty has remained the same for the past decade.

"We feel our students have the advantage of solid instruction in these fields," he said.

(Tomorrow's article will provice a more detailed look at the mathematics situation in district high schools.)

Guarascio Fontanelli Chludzinski Myers

CHEMISTRY EXPERIMENT AT MONESSEN HIGH — These three Monessen High School students are conducting an experiment under the watchful eye of instructor William Guarascio. The students, Elvira Fontanelli, Thomas Chludzinski and Lloyd Myers, are working in one of the finest-equipped secondary school laboratories in the state. All three hope to take graduate studies in science.

Million-dollar Mystery Cleared Up in Indiana

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UP)—The U.S. Treasury Department has cleared up the mystery of the million-dollar check that arrived in Indiana state treasurer Adolph L. Fossler's mail Monday.

The government sent no letter explaining what the money was for and Fossler didn't remember asking for it. To make things more confusing, the figure was in round numbers which is rare in a government check.

It wasn't until Fossler had sent a letter to Washington that Harold Cash, controller of the Indiana Employment Security Division, came up with the right answer.

The check was in response to a requisition from Cash's office for federal money to buy land on which Indiana will build its new Employment Security Division Building. Fossler had signed the request, but didn't remember sending it to Washington.

"I don't pay much attention to amounts like that," he said.

Mayor Lawrence Puts Down Foot On Negotiators

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Mayor David Lawrence bluntly told negotiators for both sides in the city's 44 - day transit strike today the time has come "to get off dead center and to begin the serious and determined work of a writing" a peace agreement.

The mayor called top officials of Pittsburgh Railways Co. and the union representing its 2,200 striking bus and trolley operators to his office and asked them "to begin negotiations here and now and not to stop until you have found some avenue for resolving this dispute."

Lawrence said he expected the negotiators "to get down to business and report back to me no later than tomorrow morning on the progress you have made."

The last face-to-face meeting of the negotiators was Nov. 17. At that time neither the union or the company budged from their pre-strike positions.

County Man Is Killed by Auto

GREENSBURG, Pa. (UP) — Thomas Braschak, Greensburg RD 7, was struck and killed by an automobile Monday night as he walked along a suburban road on the way to a funeral home where his wife's body awaited burial.

The funeral services for his wife Anna, 68, who died Saturday, were postponed from today until Wednesday when joint services will be held.

Police said Braschak was dressed in black and the driver of the car, Joseph Duffey, 31, Greensburg RD 6, was unable to see him in time to avoid hitting him.

The November meeting of the Washington County Firemen's Association will be held Saturday at 8 p. m. in the Roscoe Fire Hall. Charles Weaver, Association secretary, said that 1957 essay winners and their parents will be honored during the meeting.

Perry Senior Student Scholarship Winner

A senior at Perry-Lower Tyrone High School last night won a four-year college scholarship with a five-minute talk on the subject "I Speak for Democracy."

The winner, Libby Lee Hough, daughter of Mrs. Irma Bachoffer, Perryopolis, was judged best from among five finalists who presented similar talks in competition at the Uniontown VFW Post 47 home.

She will have her choice of attending the University of Pennsylvania, Temple University, Pennsylvania State University, or the University of Pittsburgh.

The contest, sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, was for Fayette County students. Ruth Harris, Uniontown, placed second while Barbara Whetsel, Brownsville, finished third.

The second and third place winners will receive $100-per-semester four - year - scholarships to Waynesburg College.

Other contestant in the elimination were Mary Ann Petromya, Mt. St. Macrina Academy; Joseph George, St. John's, and Robert Newman, German Twp.

The panel of judges included Dr. George Roadman, dean of instruction at California State Teachers College; Attorney Anthony Cavalcante, former Judge Samuel D. Braemer, and the Rev. W. Heplar.

County prizes will be awarded at a banquet Dec. 3 at My Cousin's Place, Brownsville. Those who did not win scholarships will receive key awards and certificates of merit.

Tape recordings of top orations will be submitted by Dec. 3 for consideration in a statewide contest, which will be followed by national eliminations.

Anthony Vigliotti of Brownsville acted as general chairman of the contest and M. B. Gorton as Uniontown chairman.

Parente Asked To See the 'New' Pittsburgh

Monessen Mayor Hugo Parente is one of more than 50 mayors from tri-state cities who have been invited to see the "new" Pittsburgh this weekend.

The mayors and their wives will be the guests of the Pittsburgh Symphony Society, the Stanley Warner-Cinerama Corp. and the Carlton House Hotel. Acting as host to the incoming group will be David L. Lawrence, Pittsburgh mayor.

The visitors will begin their weekend Saturday evening as guests of the Carlton House Hotel. They will see a special performance of the newest Cinerama production "Search for Paradise."

Sunday morning they will be entertained at a "brunch" where they will meet many of the celebrities from the Symphony Orchestra. Following brunch, the group will be given a guided tour of Pittsburgh via Greyhound.

Sunday afternoon the visitors will be taken to the Syria Mosque where they will see and hear the Pittsburgh Symphony in concert with William Steinberg conducting and Betty-Jean Hagen as soloist. This event will conclude the weekend.

Alexander Smith To Retire from His Senate Seat

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. H. Alexander Smith ended his off-again on-again campaign to succeed himself today with a statement that he will not seek reelection.

The New Jersey Republican's statement was prepared for delivery before a meeting of Republican leaders in Princeton, N.J. He announced his "difficult decision" to retire from the Senate at the end of his present term in January, 1959.

Smith's decision left no scarcity of candidates for the post. Bernard M. Shanley, who retired recently from his post as a White House aide to President Eisenhower, has announced he will seek the Senate seat now held by Smith.

In the wake of Shanley's announcement Smith made public one statement indicating he intended to retire, and then announced he had reconsidered.

Besides Shanley others mentioned as possible candidates for the post include Reps. Robert W. Kean (R-N.J.), Peter Frelinghuysen Jr. (R-N.J.) and Frank C. Osmers Jr. (R-N.J.); state Sen. Walter Jones of Bergen County; and C. Douglas Dillon, deputy undersecretary of state.

Russia Wants to Lick Us in the Classroom

(First of a Series)

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON (UP) — Two years ago, a high Soviet official told an American educator who was visiting Russia:

"We're not going to fight a hot war with you. We're going to lick you in the classroom."

Few Americans were prepared in 1955 to take this Soviet boast seriously. The U. S. school system, despite its "temporary" shortages of space and faculty, was widely regarded then as the best in the world. Russia was credited with a few good technical schools but its overall educational system was considered rather primitive.

Complacency Rudely Shaken

Three recent developments have shaken rudely such American complacency:

1. Disclosure that Russia is training far more scientists and engineers than the United States. Russian schools graduate 60,000 engineers a year to our 34,000; 8,000 Ph.D.'s in science to our 6,000.

2. Sputniks I and II blasted any notion that Russia is sacrificing quality for quantity in technical education.

3. A U. S. Office of Education report showed that Russian students work much longer and harder, and receive far more intensive training in science, mathematics and languages, than American students.

President Eisenhower had all of these facts in mind when he said in his Nov. 14 broadcast that strengthening U. S. schools is "the most critical problem" confronting the nation in its race with Russia for scientific and military supremacy.

Scientists Echo President

The President's warning since has been echoed by leading scientists and educators and by millions of parents who were concerned about the state of our schools long before Sputnik I and II.

While everyone seems to agree that America needs better schools, a United Press survey disclosed a wide range of views on the kind of improvements most urgently needed.

Some critics are calling for drastic reforms in the content and philosophy of American education. They say high school and college curriculums must be overhauled from top to bottom. They would restore emphasis to solid intellectual achievement and the teaching of basic subjects—not only math and science, but also history, geography, foreign languages, English grammar and literature.

Rear Adm. H. G. Rickover, a noted atomic scientist, said "scholastic standards" must be raised sharply at every level of U. S. education. He contends they have become so lax that the average American college graduate has less real education than a graduate of European high schools.

Teachers Turn Deaf Ear

Mortimer Smith, executive secretary of the Council for Basic Education, said U. S. schools are dominated by professional educators who turn a deaf earl to all outside criticism. These professors he said, are so bemused by their "ment" theories of edu- they have "lost sight functions of a school —to present an organized body of knowledge and teach children to use their minds effectively."

Millions of American youths, says Smith, are being taught to "drive cars, weave baskets, choose mates, and behave gracefully at a "party" when they should be learning to solve quadratic equations, conduct experiments in organic chemistry, or parse a sentence.

Professional educators say these criticisms are intemperate and unfair. Most acknowledge a need for some curriculum "adjustments" to increase emphasis on science, mathematics and other basic studies. But they oppose sweeping changes which would upset the "balance" of American education or deprive students of freedom to choose courses which meet their individual "life needs."

Choral Eucharist At Trinity Church

The Rev. David J. Dillon Jr. has announced that there will be a choral eucharist on Thanksgiving day at 10 a. m. at Trinity Episcopal Church.

Members of the parish are asked to have their "brown bags" for St. Barnabas Home at Gibsonia in before this service so that they may be sent to the home during the annual ingathering.

Three Fayette Judges Are Asked to Destroy 41 Seized Pinball Machines

State Deputy Attorney General Frank P. Lawley yesterday asked three Fayette County judges to destroy 41 multiple coin pinball machines on grounds they were "gambling devices designed to induce unwary gamblers to wager more than the machines would award in free games."

Lawley said the machines enticed players to "wager on one big game at the highest possible odds" and that by their "very nature" they were intended for gambling.

Louis Glasso, Pittsburgh, counsel for the machine owners, contended the devices were only for amusement and the test of skill. Also appearing for the owners, Anthony Cavalcante, Uniontown, argued the pinball machines were seized illegally last June and that the court lacked jurisdiction.

The machines were seized by state police in a series of raids at Brownsville.

The court ruling is expected to affect the legality of machines throughout the state. The prosecution has indicated it is making a test case out of the Fayette County hearing.

Testimony on the seizures was taken last July by Judge Eustance H. Bane, but he did not hand down a decision. The legal arguments today were before Judges Bane, W. Russell Carr and Edward Dumbauld. They did not indicate when they will hand down a ruling.

Lawley told the court "the player of a multiple coin machine, by inserting coin after coin, is undoubtedly staking and betting his money upon the result of the game."

He charged that 'the player obtains no amusement and exercises no skill in inserting the coins" and is gambling 'even if the thing played for is free games."

Glasso argued that "pinball machines are not gambling devices simply because they may be used for gambling purposes by unscrupulous owners."

He said a number of individuals keep pinball machines in their homes for recreation.

"Even commonwealth witnesses admit that such machines may be and are used for recreational purposes and demonstrations in the courtroom conclusively showed some degree of skill used.

A decision in the case is not expected for several weeks. The three judges have indicated that they want time to study testimony, legal briefs and final arguments.

Leadership, not Just Words, Needed

A SENATE committee under the chairmanship of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader, has begun an inquiry into the state of our national defenses. The chief objective, we gather, is to see where and how the Russians are ahead of us — if they are — and approximately what can and ought to be done about it.

This is a needful inquiry. Both Congress and the country need more information about this vast subject if the policies of the government are to be properly drawn and then intelligently supported by public opinion.

But it is the kind of inquiry which has to be conducted with great care and patriotic dedication by the members of the committee. The Russian Sputniks have managed to throw the nation temporarily off balance, and until balance is recovered, as it must be soon, the committee will simply add to the confusion if it permits its sounding board to be used by those who have no constructive contributions to make.

There are those, for example, who seem to see political opportunities in this situation. Their urge is to point a finger and make votes. And Sen. Johnson and his group will need to be on guard against them.

Also, while scientists deserve a role in the formulation of national defense policies and perhaps a greater role than they have had, not all scientists are competent in the field of national policy. We cannot forget, for example, our experience with Prof. J. Robert Oppenheimer, who is a great scientist. But he had no conception of the threat which Communism poses for free nations. He said at one time that he did not read a newspaper for a period of five years. He was, in effect, a scientific genius but a political illiterate.

So not all our scientists are qualified to have opinions outside their narrow fields of specialization although certainly some are so qualified.

But this is what we mean when we say that the Senate committee must proceed with caution if it is to serve the nation well. We are in a predicament in which we need leadership and guidance by men who know what they are doing and where they are going. Not everybody who has an axe to grind or an opinion to express is qualified for such leadership.

Ability First

THE CHOICE of a new congressman to succeed the late Rep. Augustine B. Kelley will be commanding the attention of the people of Westmoreland County in the weeks — and perhaps months — just ahead.

Although the Republican and Democratic party leaders will be choosing the candidates to be submitted to the voters in a special election, the attitude of the public cannot be ignored. And we hope neither party will try to do so.

It will be surprising if the Democratic candidate does not come from within that fairly small circle which controls the party and which just a few weeks ago won another sweeping election victory. This group operates a system of "promotion" of public officials in which the individual's contributions and subservience to the party machine take precedence over his abilities. And undoubtedly they will see this vacancy as a chance to "promote" somebody who has been standing patiently in line.

But will this give Westmoreland County a congressman who can go to Washington and make some contribution to the solution of our grave national problems?

The Republicans may have trouble finding a candidate who has the necessary qualifications and who would have even a fighting chance against the powerful Democratic machine. The Republicans have not been giving their candidates — and they have had some excellent ones — the kind of support candidates have a right to expect.

But no election should ever be regarded as an open-and-shut proposition. And in this case there should be a serious effort on both sides to find a man who has the education, the capacity, the judgment and the reputation which will enable him to reach competent conclusions about America's problems at home and abroad.

Merry-Go-Round—

Inequalities In Tax Laws Illustrated

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Chico Marx, member of one of the most famous teams in show business, "The Four Marx Brothers," has been having trouble paying his taxes. He owes $77,564.

Mr. Pearson

The tax laws are written so that a Texas oil man can write off 27½ per cent of his taxes on oil depletion; or the owner of the King Ranch can depreciate a prize bull in five years on his taxes; or an industrial concern can depreciate the cost of a new factory as quickly as five years — if it can get a special tax necessity certificate.

But the tax laws are not written to depreciate the skills of an actor who must sweat years in front of the footlights or the TV cameras; the abilities of a doctor who must answer sick calls night and day; or a lawyer who spends years getting his training; or a writer who pounds the typewriter night and day. They don't get the same privileges as an oil man or a fancy cattle dealer.

Back to Poverty

So Chico Marx, rising from poverty on the sidewalks of New York, has gone back to poverty. During the peak years of his earnings, he, together with Groucho, Harpo, and Zeppo were taxed millions. But Chico, now 69, is suffering from heart trouble. He obtained an engagement on the "straw hat" circuit last summer, but became ill and had to quit.

Finally the Treasury agreed to a compromise whereby Chico, real name Leo C. Marx, will pay $25,000 to be put up by his brothers. After that Chico will pay Uncle Sam any money he makes each year above $7,000 for the next five years. At the age of 69 it won't be much.

NOTE — The Eisenhower administration could wipe out its debt ceiling troubles by removing or reducing the 27-½ per cent oil depletion tax allowance. This would give it enough money to pay for plenty of missile research. However, with a former Texas oil man, Bob Anderson, now Secretary of the Treasury; with Speaker Sam Rayburn and Democratic leader Lyndon Johnson, both of Texas, watching tax changes in Congress; and with Texas oil millionaires Clint Murchison and Sid Richardson among the heaviest contributors to Eisenhower's campaign, this isn't likely to happen.

Scrap Iron Monopoly

When you talk about the scrap iron industry most people think of rusty farm machinery, the tin cans and other junk that's picked up around the countryside. They do not realize the scrap industry is so essential that our steel mills cannot operate without it and that the Roosevelt cabinet held harried meetings before Pearl Harbor over whether scrap shipments should continue to the Japanese. The fact that they did continue was one of the scandals of the Roosevelt administration.

Today another scrap iron scandal, this one an anti-trust scandal, is being probed in leisurely fashion by the Federal Trade Commission and the House Small Business Committee. Both are so leisurely that a lot of small scrap iron dealers may be out of business before they finish.

The anti-trust scandal is that one company, alone, Luria Brothers Co., Inc., of New York and Philadelphia, exports around 50 per cent of all the scrap iron from the United States.

Much of this scrap is purchased by foreign countries as a result of foreign aid advanced to them by the United States. Yet that foreign aid chiefly benefits one big scrap iron company, Luria Brothers.

Even more significant, the best deal Luria Brothers got was when Harold Stassen was head of the Foreign Operations Administration and when, simultaneously, Luria's lawyer, Morris Wolf of Philadelphia, leading member of the law firm which represents Luria, was general counsel of the Foreign Operations Administration.

Tried to Suppress Figures

Wolf is a man of excellent reputation. He has long been a director of the University of Pennsylvania of which Stassen was president. He is also a member of Pennsylvania's Republican finance committee.

When Wolf was general counsel of the Foreign Operations Administration, FOA gave a $100,000,000 loan to the European Coal and Steel Community, including France, Belgium, Luxemburg and the Netherlands. These countries then signed an exclusive contract with Luria and its associates for scrap iron.

It was the biggest scrap iron bonanza in the history of the trade, and increased Luria's monopoly position.

Asia stretches about six thousand miles from east to west and more than 5,300 miles from north to south.

Democratic Candidates for 1960

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

DENVER — Audiences won't let a reporter up off the mat when it comes to questions. They want them answered and no beating around the bush.

After you have been talking about the need for plain-speaking and no shilly shallying someone is bound to stand up and ask: "Who will be the 1960 Democratic Presidential nominee" and he dares you not to answer.

Mr. Drummond

I have tried precise vagueness like: "The Republican nominee will be a Californian and the Democratic nominee will be a non-Californian."

Or a kind of perversity like: "The way things now stand I see no candidate who can get the Democratic nomination in 1960."

It doesn't work. You have to do better than that — or worse.

Here's the List

Just look over the list for yourself. Here are the most likely Democratic possibilities in alphabetical order with a short appraisal of where each stands:

Gov. Averell Harriman of New York: Widest first-hand experience in foreign affairs of any Democratic political leader. Will be 68 in 1960. Past the age limit?

Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota: Has grown a lot in the Senate in the last few years. A liberal who has won regard of many conservatives. An outside chance.

Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas: He is the most middle of middle-road Democrats, at the very center of his party. He is a unifying political force. He voted for the civil-rights bill this year. Will the Democrats nominate a Southerner in 1960? Most politicians doubt it.

Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee: He has a wide and devout following across the country. He'll be in the running but has tried twice and failed.

Sen. John Kennedy of Massachusetts: He continues to lead most of the polls among Democrats at this early stage. Bright and personable. Right now he lacks the maturity which comes from experience; on top of being a Catholic that could mean that 1960 may be too soon.

Gov. Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey: His re-election this month showed that he attracts Republican and independent votes. He is little known outside his own state; would require a lot of reputation building. His grasp and views on national affairs are an unknown quantity.

Adlai E. Stevenson: The Gallup Poll shows that four out of ten Democrats would like to see him re-nominated; that's quite a few. Many feel that he had to run at the wrong time twice against an unbeatable candidate, Dwight Eisenhower. "The Minneapolis Sunday Tribune" poll shows him running ahead of Richard Nixon 49 per cent to 42 per cent. I feel certain he will not seek a third nomination, will not campaign for it at all. I can conceive circumstances which could bring about his nomination; a deadlocked convention might turn in his direction.

Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri: A border state moderate with experience as Secretary of the Air Force under President Truman and special competence in defense matters. If defense policy is an issue of major political controversy in 1960 he will be definitely in the race.

Gov. G. Mennen (Soapy) Williams of Michigan: An inveterate votegetter in his own state. Ingratiating but without visible humor. Is strongly slanted to the labor side of the Democratic party and this could be a handicap. Most feel that he has a good chance of getting the nomination only if the nation is in a serious recession.

What About South

Can the list be narrowed at this time? I doubt it. You can riskfully narrow it and one Democratic politician said to me the other day that he thought the nominee would be among Kennedy, Meyner, Symington and Stevenson — in that order. That's one man's opinion.

Much will depend on whether the Northern Democrats decide whether it is prudent to try to hold the South in the party or more politically practical to count a break.

It is going to be a lot easier for the Democrats to win Congress than to win the presidency. The division over civil rights and integration will hurt the party far more in the presidential election than in the congressional races.

Polio Victim Collects Items On Liberace

To the Editor:

We are writing to say thank you for your wonderful article and picture of Liberace while he was appearing at Twin Coaches.

We have had the pleasure of meeting Lee and he's a great showman and a greater person.

If you publish our thank-you in your letters-to-the-editor, would sure appreciate it if you sent the copy to me, Sally Knightstep. Liberace is my hobby. I am confined to a wheelchair due to having had polio when I was six. I have been in a wheelchair for 27 years.

I collect articles about Lee and pictures of Lee as my hobby. Wilma Moore and I have this collection together. We now have over 2,800 articles and over 2,700 pictures in our collection. Value of it is around $500, I would say.

Reds Open New Phase Of Cold War on U. S.

By CHARLES M. McCANN

Soviet Russia is taking the lead in a new Communist cold war campaign against the United States and its allies.

A formal "declaration" issued in the name of 12 communist-ruled countries gave notice that they had decided, under Russia's leadership, to launch an intensified campaign of propaganda, penetration and subversion throughout the world. In this campaign the United States is to figure as the chief enemy of peace.

Mr. McCann

This declaration, drafted in Moscow at a three-day conference of Red leaders, was followed immediately by a "manifesto" in which the delegates of Communist parties in 64 countries laid down a "peace program" that is nothing but a blanket endorsement of Russian policies.

Mutual Hatred of U. S.

Together, the two documents purport to speak directly for 33 million members of Communist parties in both Red-ruled and "capitalist" countries and indirectly for more than 950 million people who, it boasts, are now under Red rule.

The formal cold war declaration runs to about 10,000 words. It sets out in great detail the position of Communist parties in their relations with each other, their mutual hatred of the United States and its chief allies, and their hope of winning the support of "neutralist" and other countries.

One means is to try to revive the "united front" technique by which Communist parties join with Socialist parties and other left wing groups in capitalist countries.

The declaration mentions specifically "cooperation" in countries which are now under socialist party rule. It says that "united fronts" may make it possible, in some countries, "to win state power without civil war."

Mightiest Socialist Power

But where the "ruling classes resort to violence against people", the declaration says, "the possibility of non-peaceful transition to socialism" — that is, Communism— "should be borne in mind."

The declaration calls Russia "the first and mightiest socialist power." It sets out the general principles of Communist doctrine.

But in keeping with the post-Stalin policy of Soviet Communist Party Leader Nikita S. Khrushchev, the declaration says the application of these principles depends on the concrete conditions in each country." It "rejects mechanical imitation of the policies and tactics" of one Communist Party by the Communist parties of other countries.

This is an obvious concession to those Communist leaders who, like Wladyslaw Gomulka of Poland have rebelled against Moscow dictation.

Suffers Big Defeat

Russia suffered one big defeat in the fact that Yugoslavia refused to sign the cold war declaration. President Tito's delegate at the Moscow meeting, Vice President Edvard Kardelj, rejected it largely because it spotted the United States as an enemy of Communism's "peace-loving countries."

But there was also a second defeat. The declaration announced that there would be occasional meetings of Communist leaders of two or more countries on tactics and strategy. This confirmed that Russia has failed in an attempt to unite world Communist parties in a new international organization like the one-time Communist International and Communist Information Bureau.

The Lighter Side—

Sights, Sounds, Smells Give Cities Character

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UP)—What gives a city character? Chicago's wind? San Francisco's hills? Istanbul's minarets? —Milwaukee's beer? Rome's ruins? Houston's millionaires?

No one feature can do it. The cities that have the real, recognizable personalities — that come alive in your mind with the mention of their names—are summations of many experiences that tickle all the senses: — smells, noises, street voices, clothes, vehicles, animals, buildings, terrain, sculpture, air to breathe, way of life.

And the cities of great character display great differences in sound, smell, dress, voice. An eloquent comment on these personality differences is found in the November "Annals" of the American Society of Political and Social Science in an article on "The Urban Aesthetic" by John Ely Burchard, dean of the School of Humanities and Social Studies of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Notes Noise Difference

For noise differences, he notes the street-peddler chants of Naples, the bells of the beljaks in Jakarta, the San Francisco Bay fog horns, the shrill engine whistles at the Gare St. Lazare, the subway rumble of Manhattan, unmuffled motorcycles on the Corso.

As for talk, he cites: "The sharpness of Albany, the softness of New Orleans, the flatness of Omaha, the twang of Portsmouth, N. H...the diapasons of Hamburg, the falsetto upturnings of London, the liquids of Rome or Helsinki, the wails or bleats of Bombay or Cairo."

Nor do cities smell alike. Burchard says wood smoke and manure provide the warm fall atmosphere of Bourges, coal gas cafes for Birmingham or Washington, Pa., oil for Galveston, coffee roasting for Boston, and when the wind is in the southwest, Chicago knows the sick sweet odor of drying blood and recently ardent flesh."

Bizarre to Careful Clothes

In the matter of clothing: "The bizarre open shirt of Hollywood Vine is not the careful gray flannel of Grand Central, or the big hat of Fort Worth, or the bowler of the 'city' of London."

How true. I got one of those big hats—a real 10-gallon Texas special—as a gift from the late Amon Carter in Fort Worth a few years ago and wore it proudly back to New York. But for how long? One day. That's all, brother. Couldn't stand the stares.

Well, I submit that one thing the big burgs are getting together on is a brain-wearying high noise level. No less a journalistic giant than the Times of London wished plaintively the other day for the return of the tootle in auto horns. A Times editorial said:

"Life has never really been the same since the electric horn, closely allied in villainy to the steam whistle, took over from the rubber ball contrivance that emitted a mild and not unpleasant toot. It took some little effort to squeeze the thing to make the sound come out, and so there was nothing comparable to that impatient banging on the button, with resulting assaults on peace, decency, and good manners..."

Amen. Is Detroit listening?

Hempfield Game Better Than Windber Tilt?

What a game! That was the consensus comment of practically all the 1500 fans following the Monessen-Hempfield game here Saturday . . . Those who had witnessed the Windber game earlier in the season figured they'd never again see a game with so many scoring thrills as that tilt supplied but the Saturday tilt here topped that one . . . Only for the fact that Monessen led by two touchdowns in the early part of the Windber tilt and trailed Hempfield by as many as four touchdowns did the interest lag in Saturday's tilt as compared to the first game of the season . . . The Hempfield game was replete with everything a fan could ask for in a football game except a touchdown runback of a kickoff and runners came close to that several times for both teams . . . Touchdowns were scored by long runs, passes, laterals, short bucks, and options, etc.

Bobby Gordon, the middleweight hopeful managed by Dr. Charles Rosenbloom of Charleroi made an impressive showing in Havana, Cuba Saturday night when he kayoed Andres Gonzales at the Palacio DeSportes (Palace of Sports) in three rounds . . .Gonzales had won 35 fights, knocking out Julio Carreras, the Cuban light-heavyweight champion and scoring a KO over highly-rated Baby Colon during the running up of the 35 string straight wins until he met Gordon . . . The fight was on (Cuban) TV . . . Doc was very impressed with the stadium or "palace" where he said, "every seat is a ringside." . . . He described the political unrest there citing the guards outside of hotels and sports arenas with rifles and machine guns.

Two Players Score Same Touchdown!

Getting back to the Monessen-Hempfield game, one play in that contest ought to be one for the books for two Monessen backs scored the same touchdown, but not intentionally, as it appeared . . . It happened on the third Monessen score when Dan Barton swept around end from the four running wide toward the end zone and then, just as he crossed the goal line handed the ball back to Ken Bronson who was also going across the line into paydirt . . . Barton was close to the red flag marking the out of bounds, and fearing he would step out handed the ball to Bronson whom Barton figured would cut inside but the speedy halfback couldn't break his forward stride and went over with Barton, brushing the flag as he (Bronson) crossed the goal chalk-line.

How about that internationally known historian, who told the Tri-State Area School Study Council at their banquet last week that "schoolboy sports in American high schools was overemphasiized to the point of vulgarity" . . . He advocated doing away with paid coaches, traveling expenses for athletic teams and athletic scholarships in high school . . . If he is only speaking of high schools he certainly can't be referring to the schools around here and if he is not speaking of this area how come such an issue out of a subject unrelated to the area in which he was speaking? At Meadville the same night, PIAA President Mark Funk blasted schools who play "more than one football game a week" and most valley observers feel he meant Brownsville, although several other schools did likewise to complete their schedules but couldn't match the Brownies' five tilts in 17 days.

Speaking of churches, the St. Sebastian (Belle Vernon) Ladies Bowling League team scared the Belle Vernon Knights of Columbus bowers in a challenge match at North Belle Vernon Alleys Sunday . . . Going into the final game of the three-game match the men led by only 28 pins, then spurted for a fast finish to win by 118 pins . . .But the ladies want a rematch!

Middie's Complacency Worries Navy Captain

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP)— The will and determination to win means much to Capt. Slade Cutter, and it explains why Navy's athletic director is fretting today over "an atmosphere of complacency" among the brigade of Midshipmen as they head for the annual grid encounter with Army.

Cutter always has been a man big in the guts and perseverence department. He had to be, starting out as the national interscholastic flute solo champion.

But despite that beginning, square-jawed Slade became one of the finest athletes at Annapolis and one of the Navy's most decorated submarine officers in World War II in which his submarines accounted for 19 enemy ships.

Taking It For Granted

"The boys seem to be taking this one for granted," complained the man whose 20-yard field goal beat Army in 1934 and who went undefeated in 22 fights as a collegiate heavyweight.

"It's the brigade, not the team or the coaching staff," he added. "But at Annapolis the team is surrounded by the student body throughout most of the day and it's a tremendous influence. If they communicate this feeling to the team, we're sunk."

As an example of the necessity to have that fervent desire for victory he recalls the 1942 game in which Army was the heavy favorite.

"We had no business on the same field with them, but we won it, 14 to 0," he illustrated. "We just wanted it worse than they did."

But there's one — pointing up the need for that winning desire — which stands foremost in his mind.

That game was in 1950 when Cutter was stationed in California and again Navy was the underdog against Army.

"We were supposed to have some folks in to listen to the game on the radio," he said. "But then I heard the news that the fifth regiment of the First Marine Division had been surrounded at the Chosen Reservoir in Korea.

"My kid sister's husband was in that outfit," Cutter remembered softly.

Cutter was shaken by the news. He couldn't go home and face his guests. So he simply sat in his car and then, despite his mental depression, finally tuned in the Army - Navy game alone.

Brownsville an Unpredictable Eleven

Pitt Expected at Full Strength For Hurricanes

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Pitt Coach Johnny Michelosen had some bad news today for the Miami Hurricanes. The Panthers are expected to be at full strength when the two teams tangle in the resort city Dec. 7.

Michelosen, who gave the Panthers the day off Monday for their victory over Penn State, said he expected to have center Charley Brueckman and halfback Dick Bowen available for duty against Miami.

Brueckman dressed for the Penn State contest but did not see action. He has been nursing a shoulder separation, which was expected to be healed completely for the final game. Bowen, victim of a bad knee, will also play.

The Panthers opened drills at Trees Field today. They will practice again Wednesday then be given time off for the holiday until next Monday.

Pittsburgh leaves for Miami Dec. 5 and will work out in the Orange Bowl before Saturday's game.

Lady Bowlers Lose, 'Treat'

Belle Vernon K of C's bowlers had to rally to top the St Sebastian Ladies League keglers in a recent "challenge" match.

Trailing by only 28 pins going into the third game, the ladies faltered and the men went on to cop a 2202-2084 victory.

Gene Fabian paced the men with a 194-537 while Liona Kuhn had the top ladies score of 185-462.

Following the match the women feted the men to a spaghetti dinner in the St. Sebastian Church dining room. A speaking program featured Sam Fiorino thanking the women on behalf of the men bowlers and Dena Zanardelli congratulating the men on their victory. The Rev. David L Fisher, assistant pastor at St Sebastian's, pronounced the blessing before and after meals

Another match has been set, with the date to be announced later and regardless of the outcome the men will "treat" next time.

McKeever High Man For Ball-Chain

Ball and Chain League Bowling at the Grand Parlor alleys saw the West and East top team matches as Mike Adamio (547), Frank Rubachko, Cee Brown and Steve Swansick rolled top scores for the men, Norma Tatkoski, Arlene Echart and Martha Druash pacing the women, Norma showing a 167-422.

Bob McKeever had a 259 for single game honors and a terrific 647 for the three-game honor.

'We're Prepping for Future in '58'—Healey

(This is another in a series of round-up articles on valley basketball teams as they prepare for their openers on Friday night. All teams in Section 5-A—Mon Valley Conference—and other district teams like Rostraver, West Newton, etc., will be covered here.)

"We've got a lot of work to do and I'm emphasizing the word lot," stated Bellmar High School's new cage mentor Tom Healey, in sizing up the 1957-58 Hurricane cage edition.

"I've seen them in action in a couple of scrimmage games and I can see right now that we are building for the future this season, which looks very much like it's going to be a long campaign for Bellmar," added Healey.

The new 'Cane mentor, who comes from Wellsville, O., taking over from Jack Flora, veteran Bellmar cage coach, this season, was not completely pessimistic, however, as he cited several players who showed promise.

Lautsch Shows Promise

He is especially high on young Walt Lautsch, the former Marion Junior High skyscraper, who goes 6-5. "This lad shows great potential which probably won't begin to bear fruit until next season," explained Healey.

Another young giant is Ron DeMoss, who stretches, 6-4. He is also a sophomore.

The only letterman back is Ron Schmidt, a 6-2 senior. Other seniors are Bill Kubin, 5-11 and Steve Stefanik.

"My seniors will naturally figure in my plans but for the most part I am planning on going mostly with sophomores and juniors and let the cips fall where they may," Healey continued.

One player upon whom Healey is counting has been on the sick list for quite some time. Carl Osborne, a 6-4 center, who may get a starting nod, has found tough going in recuperating from the flu which hit him during the recent "epidemic." He's a junior.

Other Juniors are Ben Nelson, 5-10, Dennis Swiantek, 5-10, Tom O'Toole 5-8, Percy Cranford, 6-0, Larry Rankin 5-7, and Larry Petras 5-9.

Additional sophomore hopefuls are Lou Comadena, 6-0, Dick Caputo 6-1, and John Kasuda 6-0.

Open with Elizabeth

The Hurricanes open Friday night at Elizabeth, then follows an exhibition at West Newton before the first home clash against Rostraver on December 6, next comes exhibitions with South Union, German, Beth Joint and California in addition to return games with West Newton, Rostraver and Beth Joint, before the Section 5 opener at home with California on Jan 3. Bellmar will use the Marion Junior High floor this eason while a new Bellmar gymnasium is being built. Healey expressed satisfaction with the Marion floor as "it is larger and give us more room to run and get ready for games on the large Monessen, Monongahela and Donora floors."

Tom Healy

A lack of large seating capacity has prevented extensive use of the Marion floor in the past.

Steelers Sharpen Passing for Eagles

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The Pittsburgh Steelers, with a day of rest under their belts, opened practice today for their game with the Philadelphia Eagles at Connie Mack Stadium Sunday.

The Steelers, who defeated the Eagles here 6-0 in the first game, came out of the loss to the Green Bay Packers without injuries.

Coach Buddy Parker was expected to put his quarterbacks on an overtime basis this week to sharpen up the passing attack, which bogged down against the Packers.

All-Big Five Team Announced Tomorrow

Big Five Conference grid coaches and members of the Mon Valley Sports Writers Association met in Charleroi last night to select the 1957 All-Conference football team.

The current editior of the highly-regarded all-star squad, which will be honored at the annual banquet at Twin Coaches on Dec. 11, will be announced here tomorrow, being held off one day to enable the writers to gather data on each player named.

Tomorrow's Foe Shows Form One Game Then Falters

Coach Alex Barantovich will bring an unpredictable team here tomorrow night to battle the Monessen Greyhounds in the season finale at Memorial Stadium. (Kick-off time, 7 o'clock).

The Brownies started out with two victories by close margins over Munhall (14-13) and Redstone (7-6) when suddenly the flu bug took a deep bite out of the Blue and White leaving them inactive for nearly a month.

Since returning to competition the Barantovichmen have dropped six straight games, to Donora, Uniontown, Monongahela, Connellsville and Charleroi.

Flu Bug Effects

Ironically, the Brownies played their best games against the strongest of the above mentioned foes, Donora, and Uniontown and their worst showing against Monongahela which didn't win another Big Five tilt.

Donora was able to edge the Brownsville lads by only 13-7, Uniontown winning by a close 12-0 margin. Monongahela, however, walked away with the BHS eleven, 28-7 while Connellsville won, 12-6 and Charleroi chalked up a 28-0 victory last Friday night.

Barantovich has built his attack around two players, halfback Art Bentley, who goes about 160 and has good speed and George Baker, 160-pound quarterback, who played fullback last year.

Teaming with these two are fullbacks Lee Sullivan, 165, and Allen Sepsi, younger brother of Andy, terrific fullback of two years ago and halfback, who alternates at the line-bucking post, and John Watton, 145, at the other half. John Kanter, at 155, also sees considerable halfback action.

Myron Myrga, 205-pound veteran tackle, is the key player up front with help from Joe Cesarone, 185, who has been injured repeatedly of late. At the ends will be Jim Garred, 160, Bob Brien, 165 with Ken Lippincott 170 and Pierre Ranleigh, 170, at guards and Bill Shillings, 165-pound junior, at center.

Second Year at BHS

Barantovich, is a former Monongahela High and Penn State College star, formerly an assistant at Redstone and now in his second year at Brownsville. He is assisted by John Pringle, a newcomer, and Charley Slick, a veteran backfield coach.

Coach Armand Niccolai of the locals will go with his usual starters with most of the team coming out of Saturday's Hempfield game in good shape.

Hunter Killed As State Bear Season Opens

By UNITED PRESS

One hunter was killed Monday as Pennsylvania's week-long bear season opened.

Donald Herman, 34, of Bridsboro, was accidentally shot and killed while hunting with a party of 16 men from the Reading area. The accident occurred on Branch Mountain, 21 miles northwest of Lewisburg.

Herman died in Lewisburg Evangelical Community Hospital eight hours after he was shot in the back by a rifle accidentally discharged by Robert J. Breedy, 21, of Reading, police said.

Other members of the party, including Herman's father, Charles, and a brother, Lee, took him to Laurelton State Village, where he received first aid before being transported by ambulance to the hospital here.

Breedy told police he was emptying his rifle to return to the cabin for food when the weapon discharged while Herman walked in front of him. The .270 caliber bullet entered Herman's back and passed through his abdomen, causing extensive bleeding.

Union County Coroner Harry T. Beck ruled the shooting accidental.

Rooney to Vote 'Yes' on Players' Association

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Pittsburgh Steelers President Art Rooney will vote "yes" when National Football League owners meet next Monday to consider full recognition for the players association.

Rooney told the United Press Monday night he was in favor of any move the players thought would improve their status.

The conditions for recognition which NFL Commissioner Bert Bell will present to the owners in Philadelphia Monday already have been met by the Steelers, Rooney said.

The Steelers president said Bell's recommendations, as outlined in two bulletins, include a minimum player salary of $5,000 a year, payment of all medical and hospital expenses in case of injury and a minimum payment of $50 for each exhibition game.

"The Steelers employ no player under $5,000, always have paid medical bills and had a $50 exhibition pay this year," he said. "I will vote for recognition if it comes up Monday."

Buckeyes Edge MS, Auburn

By NORMAN MILLER

NEW YORK, Nov. 26 (UP)—Ohio State, which lost its season opener and then swept to the Big Ten championship and a berth in the Rose Bowl, took over the No. 1 spot in the United Press college football ratings today by a narrow margin over Michigan State and Auburn.

Only 18 points separated the top three teams, making this season's race for the national championship the closest in many years. The title will be determined next week in the final 1957 ballot of the United Press board of coaches.

Michigan State, in first place last week, attracted the highest number of first-place votes this week from the 35 leading coaches who make up the United Press rating board. The Spartans were the No. 1 choice of 13 coaches, compared to 11 votes for Ohio State and 10 for Auburn.

Buckeyes Gain Support

However, Ohio State received much greater support for succeeding places. No coach picked the Buckeyes lower than fifth place this week. Michigan State had one vote each for sixth and eighth place, while Auburn received one each for sixth through ninth places.

In points, Ohio State thus had 304, compared to 297 for Michigan State and 286 for Auburn. Points are awarded on the basis of 10 for a first place vote, nine for a second and so on down to one point for a 10th place vote.

Iowa moved up four notches to the No. 4 rating, placing three Big Ten powers in the first four places. Iowa was followed in order by Texas A&M, Oklahoma, Navy, Mississippi, Army and Rice.

Rice was the week's newcomer among the top 10 teams, replacing Notre Dame which dropped from ninth to 11th place after its defeat by Iowa.

Schedules Incomplete

Seven of this week's top 10 teams have games remaining on their schedule, only the three Big Ten schools having completed their regular season. Ohio State meets Oregon (ranked 17th) in the Rose Bowl. Texas A&M is a likely Cotton or Sugar Bowl participant; Oklahoma is in the Orange Bowl against Duke (ranked 15th); Navy will receive a Cotton Bowl bid if it beats Army Saturday; Mississippi is a Sugar Bowl prospect, and Rice can win the host role in the Cotton Bowl by beating Baylor.

Auburn, with a spotless 9-0 record and one game left against weak Alabama, is ineligible for a bowl bid this year.

Here is how the points were divided after the first three teams: Iowa 203, Texas A&M 191, Oklahoma 171, Navy 122, Mississippi 118, Army 73 and Rice 69.

Arizona (Tempe) State, which like Auburn is undefeated and untied, received one first place vote and ranked 13th behind Notre Dame and Wisconsin. North Carolina State was 14th with Duke and Texas tied for 15th place, and Oregon and UCLA tied for 17th. There was a five-team tie for the No. 19 rating among Clemson, Princeton, Illinois, North Carolina and Mississippi State.

JACK SHARKEY

Jack Sharkey, the Boston gob, fought heavyweights for 12 years and spanned three eras. On the way up in the golden era, he was knocked out in seven rounds by Jack Dempsey in a tuneup for the second Tunney - Dempsey fight. Briefly, in the era of chaos he was heavyweight champ (1932) after decisioning Max Schemeling who had become champion when Sharkey fouled him in a match for the title. Then, at the end, he was a victim in the Joe Louis era, going out in three rounds against the young Bomber in 1936.

Whatever happened to Jack Sharkey? He's probably out fishing somewhere. Today, at 55, Sharkey fishes at least 100 days each year, using Epping, N. H., as his base, and keeps his finger in boxing as a referee, mostly in Canada.

Campy, Duke Take Pay Cuts for '58

LOS ANGELES (UP)— Catcher Roy Campanella and outfielder Duke Snider took pay cuts in signing their 1958 baseball contracts with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The two Monday became the second and third players to sign up since the club made Los Angeles its new home.

Dodger Vice President E. J. (Buzzie) Bavasi said Campanella took a cut because of a "personally disappointing" season last year and that Snider received a "token cut."

Exact terms of the new contracts were not revealed, but Bavasi indicated Snider would receive around $42,000 a year as the highest paid player with the Dodgers, while Campanella would receive in the neighborhood of $36,000.

Miteff Scores Second Kayo

NEW YORK (UP)—Heavyweight contender Alex Miteff stopped Tony Gagliardo in the third round Monday night for his second kayo victory within a week.

Miteff rated 10th among heavyweight contenders, battered substitute Gagliardo into bloody helplessness in their TV fight at St. Nicholas Arena.

It was 21-year-old Tony's seventh defeat in 17 bouts and his second kayo. Miteff registered his 14th victory and ninth kayo in 15 fights.

Bold Ruler Voted 'Horse of Year'

NEW YORK (UP)—Bold Ruler was hailed as "horse of the year" today by the Morning Telegraph and Daily Racing Form in the annual poll of staff members conducted by the racing papers.

Thus the husky son of Nasrullah, owned by the Wheatley Stable and trained by veteran James Fitzsimmons, failed to get a majority of the 33 votes cast. But the 16 in his favor was enough to give him the title as five other horses divided the remaining 17 votes.

Nine of the others went to Ralph Lowe's Gallant Man, who was nosed out of the three-year-old championship by Bold Ruler by an even closer margin; four to Mrs. Jan Burke's Dedicate; two to Mrs. Charles Ulrich Bay's Idun, and one each to Kerr Stable's Round Table and E. Gay Drake's Swoon's Son.

Bob Pettit Regains NBA Scoring Lead

By UNITED PRESS

Bob Pettit has regained the National Basketball Association scoring lead, but four other players are within easy striking distance of the St. Louis ace.

Pettit dunked in 51 points in two games last week for a season total of 327. George Yardley of Detroit and Dolph Schayes of Syracuse are tied for second with 31 points, while Philadelphia's Neil Johnston has 312 and Bill Sharman of Boston has 310.

Yardley, who has played in one less game than the other leaders, maintains the best per-game average of 26.5, followed by Pettit's 25.2.

Keck New Baseball Writers' Prexy

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Harry Keck, veteran Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph sports editor, was elected chairman of the Pittsburgh Chapter of the Baseball Writers Assn. Thursday night.

Keck succeeded Rudy Cernkovic, United Press sports writer, who was elected secretary. Al Abrams, Post-Gazette sports editor, was elected vice chairman.

Fred Landucci, Pittsburgh Press sports writer, remained as treasurer.

Marshall Losing Hold in AHL

By UNITED PRESS

Willie Marshall's scoring reign in the American Hockey League appears to be slowly nearings its end.

The Hershey center, who held a monopoly on all three offensive departments for five weeks, has lost his hold on one and is being seriously threatened in the remaining two.

Marshall tallied two goals during last week's play to retain his lead in goals (15) and total points (30). However, Fred Glover of Cleveland took over the assist lead with 17, two more than Marshall.

Bill Sweeney, a Providence rookie, is second in total points with 26, followed by Cleveland's Jimmy Moore (24), Dunc Fisher of Hershey (23), and Glover and Bruce Carmichael of Providence with 22 points each.

Sweeney is also second in goals scored with 13.

Eddie Shack served eight minutes in the penalty box last week to increase his league lead to 66. The Providence freshman has been charged with 18 minors, two majors, a 10-minute misconduct and a match penalty.

Coach to Resign After 29 Years

PULLMAN, Wash. (UP) — A lengthy career as Washington State College head basketball coach will end at the close of this season for Jack Friel who announced today he intends to retire from active coaching.

Friel, 59, began as head coach of the Cougars in 1928 and has been recognized as one of the nation's finest teachers of the game. His teams have won 490 games in the 29-year-span, a record unmatched by any other Pacific Coast Conference coach.

In his retirement announcement, Friel said he thought 30 years' coaching was enough and that it was about time for a younger man to take over.

Friel said he would remain at WSC as a teacher in the physical education department in which he holds an assistant professorship.

Arkansas Coach Gets Kansas Questionnaire

LAWRENCE, Kan. (UP)— Cautious athletic director A. C. (Dutch) Lonborg conceded today he's asked "Jack Mitchell here for an interview," but denied that the Arkansas mentor and native Kansan had an inside track on the vacated Jayhawk coaching job.

Lonborg said Mitchell would probably arrive here Wednesday for "one of several such planned interviews. I've talked with a lot of coaches in the past few days, many of them in confidence. We have no target date on hiring a new coach, but I personally would like it to be as soon as possible."

From Fayetteville, Ark., Monday night, it was reported Mitchell would meet with Lonborg in Kansas City, Mo., either today or Wednesday. A Kansas spokesman, extremely close to the athletic department, said Mitchell's hiring was merely a matter of time. The source, unidentified on request, said "the deal apparently has been cut and dried for weeks."

Mitchell, a former Oklahoma quarterback great, denied an interest in the Kansas job shortly after the resignation of coach Charles Mather and five assistants, Oct. 31.

Lonborg said despite rampant rumors that Mitchell was the school's "only choice", several other coaches were under consideration. Lonborg declined to name others, but reliable sources have cited North Carolina State Coach Earle Edwards, Arizona (Tempe) State mentor Dan Devine, and Wade Walker of Mississippi State.

Missile Fuels Tricky And Hard to Handle

By ELMER C. WALZER

NEW YORK (UP) — Romance of the exotic fuels which send satellites and missiles hurtling into space sounds anything but romantic when the experts talk about them.

They are tricky things, hard to handle, and dangerous. Some of them are difficult to store. And the whole group of them is in a confused mess just now with any one in research — or none at all now in the laboratory — apt to be the real propellant of the future.

Standard & Poor's notes that the whole missile fuel field is subject to rapid technological shifts. Worst of all marketwise. the firms making these fuels or experimenting with them point out that earnings of any significance still are several years away.

Standard believes that no single propellant will meet all the operating requirements of all types of rockets and missiles.

Chemical fuels may give way to nuclear, ionic, or solar energy.

Right now there are two types of high energy fuels — liquid and solid. Most missiles use a liquid consisting of a fuel and an oxidizer Standard & Poor's explains. The oxidizer combines with the fuel to release the heat of combustion.

Here are a few things which make the liquid fuels undesirable:

Liquid hydrogen provides more thrust per pound than any others, but it is difficult to make and problems of its use are currently almost insurmountable.

Light - weight metals, such as boron, lithium, and beryllium are being explored along with the amine fuels such as hydrazine, dimethyl hydrazine, and amonia. These have little carbon content. Standard says these have been found to be extremely dangerous to handle because of their toxicity and unstable nature.

Liquid propellants are found to develop more thrust per pound than solids, but their many disadvantages are working against them. The Navy, for example, is concentrating almost netirely on solids.

Solid fuels also have problems, it is pointed out. They cost more to make, too. They have a short operational life and an unstable pressure to their explosive force. They also present problems in turning off or controlling propulsion once it is started.

The scientists are working on a maze of exotic fuels. Many of the difficulties are being overcome. There still are problems.

All of this does not mean the propellants do not work. They have been demonstrated to produce the proper speeds for missiles and meteors, but they are as dangerous as a rattlesnake to handle. Worst of all they are costly and so far lack the profits that would make them stock market favorites.

Scientists Can't Be Sure When Sputnik Will Die

By UNITED PRESS

Scientists of three nations had conflicting opinions on the actual death-date of Sputnik I's rocket today but it appeared certain from their calculations that its doom is imminent.

The Soviet news agency Tass said Monday the rocket would fall during the first 10 days of December and added that it would disintegrate before hitting the earth.

Scientists at the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory in Cambridge, Mass., said sometime ago the rocket would probably falter "around Dec. 11."

Experts there have also said they believed the rocket would hit the earth despite the terrific friction in the atmosphere.

Monday night a Cambridge moonwatch team tracked the rocket in the early evening. It was scheduled to make two more passes over the United States today — both visible in the Northeast section of the nation if weather permits.

ARE VITAMINS MEDICINE?

Door-to-door salesmen are selling "vitamin preparations" these days and you may think these are therapeutic doses. They may or may not be. Point is, that you can't know whether they are or not, and the salesman probably isn't qualified to know whether you ever need them. If you do need vitamins in the therapeutic quantities, only your physician can tell you what you need and how much, and only your registered pharmacist should dispense them. Where your health is concerned, always rely on competent professionals.

Mister, don't you know this is GIVE-YOUR-WIFE-A-GAS-DRYER Month

No wonder he got a cold reception! She hauled basket after basket of heavy wet wash outside —hung it up, piece by piece. Then it rained! She had to run out, take it down, go through the whole tiresome job all over again in the basement. Hanging clotheslines . . . wrestling with wet sheets, tablecloths, bedspreads. Inside or outside, it's a hard, backbreaking day's work. So how about it, mister? Get your wife a GAS Dryer and win a warm welcome on washdays. GAS dries clothes so soft and fluffy. GAS does all that heavy work for only a penny a load! And GAS Dryers even cost less to install and maintain than electric dryers.

NATO Faces Crucial Sessions on Dec. 16

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG

LONDON (UP)—The 15-nation North Atlantic Alliance faces one of the most critical moments in its eight-year history when its leaders meet in summit session in Paris Dec. 16.

A year ago, NATO barely was saved from threatened disintegration following the Suez invasion. Suez brought an open rift between the United States on the one hand and Britain and France on the other that took months to heal.

This year's council session finds France bitter and resentful over recent U. S. and British arms deliveries to Tunisia. At the same time, the French fear that the U. S. and Britain, as the two atomic powers in the alliance, are "ganging up" to run it as an Anglo-American show.

Seek German Support

The French reportedly already are seeking support from West Germany and the smaller NATO powers to block any attempt by the U. S and Britain to dominate the alliance.

Washington and London have disclaimed any such plan.

NATO's newest and perhaps gravest crisis blew up only days after President Eisenhower's dramatic announcement Oct. 30 that he would attend the Paris NATO session, which transformed it into a Western "summit" conference.

The dispute between France and her two chief allies generally was expected to overshadow the meeting.

Watertight Demands

France was expected to demand watertight demands that

1. Her allies will take no action in North Africa or elsewhere contrary to French policy and interests. She also may seek pledges of U. S.-British support for her Algerian policy

2. France and other NATO members will have equal say with the Anglo-Saxon nations in deciding NATO policies in general.

Diplomats expected both issues to jump at once to the forefront They predicted that President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan will take pains to smooth the ruffled feelings of France, generally regarded as the keystone of the whole alliance.

A sizeable list of other major issues also was scheduled for discussion.

Record Number of Bankruptcies Listed

WASHINGTON (UP)—The administrative office of the U.S. courts reports a record 77,865 bankruptcies in the nation last year. It appears 1957 will top that record, the office said.

The office handles administrative details and statistics for federal courts It said in its quarterly report that about 80 per cent of the bankruptcy petitions were filed by individual workers

The report also showed that personal injury cases have shown a rapid increase—"faster than any type of civil litigation"—and have "more than quadrupled over the past 15 years."

Taxpayers Can Ignore One Line On 1957 Forms

WASHINGTON (UP) — Taxpayers can ignore one line in the 1957 federal income tax forms — the one requiring itemization of expense accounts.

The government dropped the requirement Monday for listing expense receipts, although the query will remain on the tax forms on line 6-A.

Internal Revenue Commissioner Russell C. Harrington said the itemization "would place too great a burden on many taxpayers" because it was announced so late in the year.

Harrington warned, however, that taxpayers should keep accurate records on their expense accounts for the 12 months starting Jan. 1 "so that for 1958 and later years they will be in a position to supply expense account information" to the government.

The tax chief also said taxpayers would be required to follow the customary practice of attaching to their returns a separate listing of deductible expenses for which they received no reimbursement from their employers. This applies principally to self-employed persons.

Harrington's statement ended a month of confusion and consternation among taxpayers whose business expenses are reimbursed by their employers.

Barr Says GOP Leaders 'Regret' Education Blocks

HARRISBURG, (UP) — Democratic State Chairman Joseph M. Barr said today that Republican leaders have reason to "regret" their blocking of Gov. George M. Leader's higher education program.

Leader proposed an expanded program of state-financed scholarships and establishment of community junior colleges but the 1957 Republican-controlled General Assembly rejected it.

"I think the Republican leaders, particularly state chairman George I. Bloom, now regret the lack of foresight and understanding that led them to kill this program, without an opportunity even for debate at the 1957 legislative session," Barr said in a statement.

"Bloom and his legislative cohorts did not then realie that Soviet scientific achievements soon would make a mockery of the pettiness and small bore thinking that dictated their opposition," Barr said. "The two Russian Sputniks whirling in outer space must have a special significance for George and his legislative followers that they would like to forget."

Calls for Protest

LONDON (UP) — Champion Czech distance runner Emil Zatopek appealed to the world's athletes today to protest nuclear tests. In the appeal broadcast by Prague Radio, Zatopek, an officer in the Czech army, called on "you sportsmen, whom I have met at the stadia of the world" to join "campaigns in your countries for the immediate cessation of atomic and hydrogen weapons tests."

Soldier Held In Slaying of Japanese Girl

YOKOHAMA (UP) —The U.S. Army today formally charged a young Michigan soldier with the strangulation murder of the Japanese wife of a U.S. Navy man now serving in California

Charged with the slaying of 25-year-old Kazue Eikawa Wescott was S3C Gregory J. Kupski, 23, (5014 Grand Ave.) Detroit, Mich.

Mrs. Wescott's nearly nude body was found in a Yokohama alley Nov. 17. The Army announced Nov. 22 that Kupski had confessed to the crime.

Her husband, AD1C Robert Leslie Wescott, (1 Ample Drive) Vineland, N.J., currently is stationed at the China Lake Naval Air Station in California with the VX5 Experimental Squadron. They were married in Japan May 19, 1955, while he was stationed at Atsugi Naval Air Station near here, and their marriage was registered with the U.S. embassy in Tokyo.

The Army said murder charges were made formally after a "thorough" investigation by Japanese and U.S. military police.

Sputnik Sighted

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UP)— The rocket that sent Sputnik into space was visible here Monday night, allowing a local television station to get a live two-minute shot of it. WSM-TV caught the brilliant rocket as it streaked by at about 45 degrees above the darkening horizon between 5:12 and 5:14 p.m., passing southeast from Michigan to North Carolina.

Clothes Do Make the Man in the Antarctic; They Have the Latest

By CHARLES MOORE

CHRISTCHURCH, New Zealand (UP) — Clothes make the man in the antarctic.

And the men who man the nation's scientific stations at the bottom of the world are no different from the Madison Avenue dudes with Ivy League trousers and button down shirts.

But they have more to work with.

The antarctic resident is a man of many parts . . . from his two pairs of socks to his three pairs of gloves.

In addition to his heavy wool socks, he covers his feet with two pairs of shoes. One is a wool-felt inner liner and the other is a GI version of the Eskimo mukluks.

Boot-Like Footwear

These are boot - like footwear with rubber soles and canvas tops that extend to just below the knee.

The clothes on the body begin with a new type of long-john and work outward.

Underwear is made of waffle-knit cotton, a recent invention that provides the warmth of wool without wool's itching or shrinking problems. The waffle knit construction holds cells of warm air next to the body.

The next item of wear is the wool shirt, which is followed by heavy trousers, a heavy wool sweater and, on a mild day, an insulated jacket.

Cold days require a heavy insulated parka with the head covered with a wool-lined cap with flaps that protect the forehead, ears and the nape of the neck.

The gloves usually come in three pieces — an inner-lining of knit wool or cotton, followed by horsehide gloves large enough to accommodate the liners and finally, heavy wool mittens.

These are slung on straps that hang from the neck so the mittens can be removed for close handwork without being lost.

All this probably is government issue and most of it olive drab.

But there's color in the antarctic, too.

Most pilots have featherweight wind-proof trousers and parkas to wear. These come in a wide range of brilliant colors, including red, blue and yellow.

Navy pilots wear blazing orange crash helmets.

Additional bits of color are added to the clothes by the men. They include pieces of fluorescent "day glo" marker cloth, which are sewn on the tops of the shoes and, in some cases, on the seats of the trousers.

The fashion plates at the bottom of the world are the men best known for their Yankee ingenuity . . . and the ability to make midnight requisitions.

Mental Patient Faces Hearing On Extradition

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Frank Edward Wetzel, 36-year-old New York mental patient, today faced a hearing to remove him to North Carolina to stand trial on charges of murdering two highway patrolmen.

Federal District Judge Harry C. Westover set the hearing Monday after local authorities received a complaint from North Carolina charging Wetzel with the murders of troopers W. K. Reece and J. T. Brown last Nov. 5.

Asst. U.S. Atty. A. Deutz said Wetzel, an escapee from a Willard, N.Y., mental institution, probably would be returned soon to stand trial unless he decides to fight removal.

After authorities found Wetzel's fingerprints in a car abandoned near Chattanooga, Tenn., a nationwide hunt was launched for him.

The abandoned car had been stolen in Bradford, Pa., Nov. 3. It bore a license plate taken from a car at Carrolltown, Pa., and contained guns and ammunition stolen from a Barnesboro, Pa., hardware store.

Two officers picked up Wetzel by accident on a vagrancy charge in Bakersfield, Calif., last Thursday after he was spotted loitering near a sporting goods store.

Your Health—

Normal Life with Colostomy

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

A colostomy need not, and should not, be a handicap to a normal life. Thousands of persons all over the nation are working, playing and living a perfectly natural existence following this operation.

You would never suspect that these actors, doctors, attorneys, businessmen and housewives have an artificial opening of the bowel on the surface of the abdomen.

They swim, dance, play golf, do their housework and gardening and perform all sorts of chores just like everyone else.

I point this out for those of you who recently have had colostomies or those of you who are about to have them.

A colostomy is a substitute for the rectum. Through it the bowel discharges its contents. While it may be an inconvenience at first when you really stop to think about it, it is a very small price to pay for good health.

Drastic Alteration

As with any other drastic alteration in our daily habits, you have to learn to accept the change and then to live with it.

Naturally you will have to make certain adjustments.

For one thing, you will have to master a simple method of bowel control. Once this is achieved, you're on your way to resuming your normal way of life.

It's not fair for me to advise you to forget your colostomy. You can't do that, of course. And at the beginning, you're apt to feel discouraged and frustrated. Very possibly you will feel that you are "different" from everyone else.

Well, remember all those thousands of others I just told you about. They are in the same boat, so to speak, and mastered their difficulties.

They faced the very same strange, new situation confronting you. They conquered it, and so can you. It takes quite a bit of effort, but it is well worth it.

And don't make the mistake of thinking a colostomy will harm your general health. If you make the adjustments I have mentioned, it won't hurt you a bit.

The real trouble, you must remember, has been removed. The portion of the intestine that remains is well able to take care of the body's functions.

Question and Answer

J. E.: What is St. Vitus' Dance?

Answer: The symptoms are irregular twitching and purposeless movements of various parts of the body. One of the first things noticed in this condition is a change in the handwriting, and inability to hold utensils at the table.

Treatment consists in complete and absolute rest and quiet, and the use of phenobarbital under direction of a doctor.

No known infectious disease develops faster than Asiatic cholera. After the first symptoms, persons have died from it within sixty minutes.

Blanche Thebom Will Tour Soviet Union

BY DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UP) — Blanche Thebom, famed Metropolitan Opera star, is going to do a "Carmen" with the Bolshoi Opera in Moscow and an "Aida" with the Shevchenko Opera in Kiev.

She will sing the "original language" in both, the first being French, the second, Italian.

But the remainder of the casts of both will sing in Russian, which, of course, will be the language of the audience. The reason for this arrangement is not known—either Russian opera companies can't sing in languages other than Russian, or Russian audiences would not stand for it.

(Miss Thebom is a former Monessen native and has appeared here several times professionally.)

Miss Thebom is making a three-week tour of Russia, beginning in Moscow Dec. 2, as a part of a "cultural exchange" between Russia and the United States. In return for Miss Thebom, we will get the Russian pianist, Emil Gilels, and the violinist, Leonid Kogan.

Opera Has Deficit

The Metropolitan Opera closed books on its 1956-1957 season with an operating deficit of $610,025. But this was cheery news because the deficit for the previous season was $711,491.

However, there were contributions totalling $514,648 which reduced the 1956-57 loss to $95,377, which made it the first season in years that the net loss had been less than $200,000. Anthony Bliss, president of the Metropolitan Opera Association, pointed out that comparable opera houses in Europe have annual losses "two and three times that of the Metropolitan."

The European losses are made up by subsidies from the government, of course, while the Met's losses are made up from private purses. But there is another difference. It costs comparatively little to get into an European opera house while an evening at the Met in the best or the better seats is expensive. Even so, the Met played to 93.9 per cent of capacity during 1956-57. If it could have a longer season at current prices and with current support, it would become self-supporting. Opera-in-English, many believe, would do it.

Called the ampersand in English, "&" is the oldest symbol representing a word in the world today. It is used as the abbreviated form of the word "and" in scores of languages.

World of TV—

TV Show For the Teen-ager

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UP)—Teen-agers make or break a pop record.

But strangely enough, although TV trots out a bushel of musical shows each week, only one is pitched right at the saddle shoes set—"American Bandstand."

ABC-TV, which launched the show on its network in August (it started as a local TV entry in Philadelphia five years ago) beams it to 74 of its stations for 90 minutes each afternoon, Monday through Friday. The daytime show has proved so successful that, since October, the network also has staged a half-hour evening version each Monday.

No 'Maggie' Talent

The show's click with teen-agers is based on a simple formula: It shuns the high - priced, highly-publicized "When-You-and-I- were-Young, Maggie" talent that other network musicals offer so often. Instead, "American Bandstand" zeroes in on the artists the kids are buying—Johnny Mathis, the Everly brothers, the Crickets, many of them names that don't mean much to square elder auditors.

"It's no secret that TV neglects the teen-ager," says Dick Clark, emcee of the show. "Even some radio stations have stopped programming for the kids. The situation exists because so many advertisers think the teen-agers lack buying power.

"But, of course, anybody who knows teen-agers knows that's nonsense. In any family, the teen-ager influences the purchase of the car, the toothpaste, the breakfast cereal that goes into that family. And he sets the styles for the rest of the nation in other things—in music, in fashion, for example."

Commands Loyal Audience

At 27, the baby - faced Clark commands a pretty loyal audience. One trade weekly ("Variety"), he pointed out, recently called him "the number one hit maker in the nation." Clark returns that loyalty.

"I think it was Mitch Miller who said the teen-ager likes rock 'n' roll because nobody else does," says Clark. "The teen-ager would like to be thought of as belonging to a distinguishable group. He wants an identity of his own.

"He thinks like an adult, but he thinks of different things. He's not concerned too much with making a living as adults are. His concerns are things like the high school football team, music...

"His heroes? Well, in music, Ricky Nelson and Sal Mineo. Elvis Presley is still big. And there's Jerry Lee Lewis and Fats Domino. With the exception of Fats, who is 29, they're all pretty young — the kids can identify with them. They buy Pat Boone, too, but they don't get excited about him. He's sort of solid bread—the Frank Sinatra of this generation.

On the whole, 98 per cent of our kids are well-mannered, well-adjusted people. It's the two per cent who have stirred up all the trouble — something many adults fail to consider. I remember once on my show I read a statement about young people being unfit, disrespectful...

"You know who wrote the statement? Socrates, in 400 B. C. Even then, the older generation was complaining about the kids."

Recreation Areas To Get Priority Along Highways

HARRISBURG (UP) — The State Highways Department has been notified by Gov. George M. Leader to emphasize construction of rest-recreation areas on the state's 1,500-mile interstate highway system and other limited access roads.

Highways Secretary Lewis M. Stevens ordered engineering consultants to incorporate plans for roadside rest program simultan-projected super-highways. This will permit development of the roadsihe rest program simultaneously with expansion of the interstate system.

"Our purpose is to take full advantage of the specialied skills of consultants working on interstate plans right from the beginning of the project," Leader said. "Suitable sites for roadside rests can be spotted in original surveys and design plans developed which will be in harmony with local topography and highway contour."

The governor said the rest and recreation areas will be especially important on the interstate roads because of the long distances involved on some of them, unbroken by communities of any size.

He pointed out that the projected Keystone Shortway across north-central Pennsylvania will be about 300 miles long and will not enter any town.

"A system of roadside rests on alternate sides of the highway will provide motorists with an opportunity to break the danger of driving to the point of exhaustion," Leader said.
